Outreach Ministry in Cameroon

Often called “Africa in miniature,” there are 24 major African language groups in Cameroon, including more than 300 individual languages and the two official languages of English and French.

There is freedom of religion in Cameroon, but radio broadcasts and television airings are limited. Therefore, the most effective method of ministry in Cameroon is a personalized one-on-one approach, which brings staff and volunteers to the front doors of those to whom they are reaching out.

Though this method is hampered by an infrastructure with often impassable roads, it is effective, especially in the northern portion of the country where the influence of Islam is spreading. Oftentimes, Christians in local areas are presenting the Gospel to their neighbors, which adds to a large base of volunteers for LHM.

Other ministry activities include visiting people in hospitals and prisons to conduct Bible studies and prayer meeting sessions; Equipping the Saints evangelism training; and, the distribution of booklets and other printed materials.
